NC29730

5

10

ABSTRACT

COMMUNICATION DEVICES AND METHOD OF COMMUNICATION

A portable communications device comprising communication means for communicating with a another party, and identification means for separately providing information on said device, said another party being arranged to obtain said information from said identification means and to use said information to establish communication with said communication means.